The Route

1. Piccadilly (Green Park) to Berkeley Square (21m)
2. Dover Street to Buck's Club (17m)
3. Burlington House to St. James's Street (20m)
4. Pickering Place to St. James's Square (19m)
5. Pall Mall (East) to Haymarket (18m)
6. Trafalgar Square to The Sherlock Holmes (15m)

With author P. G. Wodehouse (1881-1975), creator of Jeeves, Bertie Wooster, and Emuwash, Blandings Castle and so much more, lived in London for much of the pre-WWII period. In his novels and stories, he used many of the places familiar to him in London's West End - places that Norman Murphy has traced and explains in this fascinating trip from Piccadilly through Mayfair and St. James's to Trafalgar Square. In addition to the Wodehouse connections, Murphy's celebrated Wodehouse London Walk includes many other intriguing stories into the history and development of England's capital city.

Tribute 2017 in Szmulewicz

A man in a green jacket and grey pants is standing on a grassy area. He is holding a brown hat in his right hand and has his left leg raised, resting it on a white sign. The sign is mounted on two black posts and has the text 'Wodehouse Walk' followed by a right-pointing arrow. In the background, there is a wooden fence, a tree, and a utility pole.
